Growing together, Learning forever

28th January 2021

Good afternoon parents and carers,

I wanted to write and say a huge THANK YOU to you all for everything you are doing at home with your children to support their home learning. We really know that it's not easy trying to juggle your work commitments and support your children at the same time but everyone is trying their best and at the moment that's all we can ask.

A few parents have let us know that their children are beginning to feel the stresses and strains of trying to work at home and may be struggling with the amount of work set. If this is the case for you, then please don't feel under pressure to complete ALL the work provided. A little bit of work, little and often (particularly the English and Maths) is beneficial if the children are feeling under pressure.

I also need to let you know that school will be closed to all children (and staff) over the half term holiday (Week beginning Monday 15th February) so there will be no home learning during this week. This will be another opportunity for the children (and you) to relax and recharge the batteries.

Following the news yesterday, we are all really hopeful that the children will start returning to school from Monday 8th March, but as yet we don't know the details or what form this return will take. I will keep you informed as soon as I know - although the way announcements have been made previously you may well know before me!

So, with the 8th March as a possible light at the end of the tunnel I would ask that you keep supporting your children as you have been, keep doing the brilliant job you are doing and keep supporting the school and its staff by keeping safe and staying at home if possible.

Thanks again,

Yours sincerely,

Patrick Mullins
Headteacher
